IN THE SENATE

Circuit Court should be held each year at Waialeale.

Thirteen citizens of South Kona asked that $15,000 be appropriated for courthouse, jail and jailer's cottage, the site to be changed from Kailua to a place on the upper road, South Kona. Fifty citizens of South Kona petitioned that certain public lands in South Kona be opened for homesteads. Dickey presented a petition from the Congressional and Sunday School Associations of the Island of Hawaii, both in session, that the law safeguarding the observance of the Sabbath be left untouched. Also a petition in favor of the passage of the local option liquor bill.

Paris presented a petition from 41 citizens of South Kona, for a schoolhouse at the junction of the Napoos and Honanua roads.

DIVERSIFIED INDUSTRIES. A report from the Committee on Public Lands, etc., reported on the bill to encourage diversified industries. They recommended its passage with an amendment to the effect that the exemption of certain industries from taxation be "for five years after the approval of this act," instead of "the next five years" as in the bill.

THE DEPOSITARY BILL. The Committee on Ways and Means presented a report on the public money depositary bill, saying:

"Although the general tenor of the act meets with the approval of your committee, there are many of its provisions that have been found upon investigation to be seriously objectionable, more especially sections 4, 5 and 6, which, if passed, might raise a question as to the constitutionality of the act. Your committee has therefore prepared and herewith submits an amended act, which is offered and recommended as a substitute for the original bill."

"In conclusion your committee would point out that although by its terms this amended bill may prove inoperative by limiting the security to U. S. or Hawaiian Territorial bonds, it is your committee's opinion that this provision may create a demand for our Territorial bonds, when such are available, something much to be desired and encouraged in every way possible."

The substitute bill went to the printer.

THE LOAN BILL.

Bishop presented a report from the joint committee of both houses on the Loan bill. It has been published in advance, with its recommendations to strike out the items of $200,000 for a public building and $20,000 for an armory of the N. G. H. in Honolulu, and that the bill be submitted to the legislative delegations of the different islands for apportionment of the loan fund. The committee asked for further time, which was granted.

Achil did not see why the Honolulu Water Works should be held as part of Oahu's share, as their revenue went into the general treasury, but it was ruled that he was out of order.

AGRICULTURE BILL.

A report from the Judiciary Committee on Senate Bill 41, recommending that the title be changed to read, "An Act to amend Sections 379 and 381 of the Revised Laws of Hawaii relating to the encouragement and protection of Agriculture, Horticulture and Forestry." Other amendments were simply to make the bill conform to the title as so amended.

Laid on the table to be considered with the bill.

The Judiciary Committee also reported on the bill to protect the owners of bottles, etc., from the violation of trademarks, recommending a number of verbal amendments. Laid on the table to be considered with the bill.

JURY HAS JONES CASE

After nearly two months' trial, the Jones case went to the jury at 11:45 this morning. The courtroom was crowded all morning, while Deputy Attorney General Peters concluded his address to the jury. Peters' arguments lasted considerably longer than those of the defense. Robertson argued for nearly a whole day in presenting the defense's side of the case. Peters began on Monday evening, spoke through the morning, afternoon and evening sessions yesterday and continued until eleven o'clock this morning.

At eleven Judge Robinson began his instructions to the jury. It took three quarters of an hour to read them, but the crowd in and about the courtroom remained to the end. The prosecution had offered fifteen instructions and the defense thirty-nine and the court had some of its own. Of the defense's were given unmodified and nine were rejected altogether. When Judge Robinson ceased reading Robertson argued objections to all the alterations the judge had made in the various instructions asked for by the defense in the giving of instructions which the prosecution

Rep. Mahaloa submitted a resolution for the appointment of a special committee to investigate the charges made by the Grand Jury as to the administration of the Department of Public Instruction.

He made an attack on the Superintendent of Public Instruction and was followed by Coe in a similar strain. Coe contributed to the general fund of amusement by presenting a scrapbook which, he said, contained clippings of different articles libeling his good name and these, he declared, were the work of the Superintendent.

The House refused a special committee and an amendment to leave the matter to the Education Committee was adopted.

Coe introduced a resolution for improving the water works system of Waialeale and Kailua, Maui.

Pulua had a resolution enquiring as to applications for liquor licenses in North Kohala. He also asked for $495 for a jailer's cottage at South Kohala.

Kanilo introduced a bill to prevent the storage of lumber within the fire limits of Honolulu.

A resolution was presented by Kanilo asking for $15,000 for repairing the Puuhoe-Kawahae road and $3,500 for the Kaaohuhu-Kahili road.

A petition was presented asking for $1,500 for macadamizing Road E off Sheridan street.

Holstein introduced a bill changing the close season for the Hawaiian goose, or anu, to be between September 15 and February 1.

The House went into Committee of the Whole at 10:15 and again took up the consideration of the County Bill.

Chapter VII was taken up. It passed with minor amendments with the exception of the section concerning the bonds to be required of County officers. Several changes in the wording of this will be required owing to the making of two counties on Hawaii, so consideration of the section was postponed until the amendments are drawn.

THE CONTESTANT AS A WITNESS

IN THE ELECTION CASE BEFORE DOLE.

Col. C. P. Iaukea, election contestant was on the witness stand before Judge Dole all day yesterday and all this morning, telling of his reasons for bringing the contest. Today he was under cross-examination by McCants Stewart, regarding what he saw on election day.

Iaukea said that personally he did not see any numbered ballots counted. "The ballots cannot be identified," he admitted, "if the numbers are torn off before they are counted."

He was asked if he had seen any ballots counted with the numbers on, and said that he had not. All the ballots he saw being counted on election day had the numbers properly torn off.

The colonel was also questioned about the large numbers of laborers employed by the government during the campaign. One of the charges in the contest is that large numbers of men were given work by the government in order that the Republicans might strengthen their organization. Colonel Iaukea in his direct testimony stated that the government during the campaign employed an unprecedented number of men, more than he had ever known before.

WORK DONE ON STANFORD MYSTERY

THE HIGH SHERIFF THINKS IT CERTAIN POISON WAS NOT INTRODUCED INTO SODA HERE.

High Sheriff Henry stated this morning that he felt satisfied that the poison in the Stanford bicarbonate of soda bottle had not been put into the bottle in Honolulu. In fact the sheriff said that he practically knew it. The investigations of the local police had, the sheriff stated, traced the deadly bottle from the time that it was packed into the medicine basket in San Francisco up to the time that the deadly dose was taken from the bottle for Mrs. Stanford on the night of February 28. Nobody had used the bottle the sheriff stated.

The local police can scarcely thus pass the possibility of responsibility up to the mainland authorities. There was plenty of opportunity for the poison to have been put into the medicine in Honolulu. For a number of days after Mrs. Stanford arrived in Honolulu she, Miss Berner and Miss Hunt, the maid, were absent from the Moana hotel hours at a time. On one day the party drove to Tantalus taking practically the entire day and on the day of the tragedy Mrs. Stanford and her attendants were absent from 10 o'clock in the morning until 4 o'clock in the afternoon. That bottle of bicarbonate of soda was not under lock and key during any of that time.

The bottle was kept in the medicine basket inside of the telescope basket in Mrs. Stanford's room. Had any conspirator followed Mrs. Stanford to Honolulu for the purpose of poisoning her, access to that bottle of bicarbonate of soda could easily have been effected by securing entrance to Mrs. Stanford's room at the hotel. It is true that the door was in all probability locked, but the locks on the doors at the hotel are not of a complicated character and a skeleton key would in all likelihood, have given entrance to the room. Once inside the conspirator could easily have found the basket. It sat out on the floor by Mrs. Stanford's trunks, and the poison could have been dropped into the bottle.

Entrance might even have been secured through the windows. The High Sheriff states that he examined the windows carefully and that entrance could not have been secured from the outside. Mrs. Stanford was in the habit of keeping the windows raised the mosquito screens fastened. Those screens are fastened with hooks. So far as is known now, nobody appears to have investigated on Tuesday night when Mrs. Stanford died, whether those hooks were secured or not. An investigation in the morning disclosed the fact however that none of those mosquito windows had apparently been opened.

The theory of the local police that the poison was not put into the bicarbonate of soda bottle in Honolulu may or it may not be correct but so far as any definite investigations on this matter is concerned, there was time enough during Mrs. Stanford's absence from her room at the hotel, to have put pounds of strychnine into the place. There was even better opportunity for a daring conspirator to have put the

A CHALLENGE TO DRIVE SIX IN HAND

J. H. LOVE OF THE POLICE CHALLENGES QUINN—WOULD BEAT THE BEN HUR CHARIOT RACE.

J. H. Love one of the police patrol drivers has challenged James Quinn to a six-horse driving match. Love says he will go into a corral and pick out six green horses, hitch them and drive them in any rig selected. He will also drive on a graded road, such as that to the Pali, or on any street in the city. He is willing to stake his reputation for a purse of from $100 to $500.

Love says he won a prize in a stage-driving match at Carson City and he was also the winner in a broncho-riding match in Nevada.

To this challenge Quinn has replied as follows:

EDITOR STAR: Relative to the challenge of J. H. Love for a six horse team driving match which has been published, I will gladly accept the proposition with a few provisos which I have a right to impose.

1st. That he shall get his life insured for at least $5,000.

2nd. That he shall furnish his own horses.

3rd. That the High Sheriff shall have all the mounted patrolmen on hand with lawmen in order to catch the team after they get away.
